PREVENT HARASSMENT AND ASSAULT

6 ways to act

1. Think it through before it happens

What would you do if you saw something that could be sexual harassment or assault? If you have thought about it in advance, it's easier to take action in the moment.

2. Be considerate rather than suspicious

Sometimes it's easier to help the person who's being harassed instead of focusing on the person who's doing something wrong.

3. Make contact

Look around - are other people seeing the same thing you're seeing? Make contact with them so you can help each other take action.

4. Dare to speak up

Is no one else reacting? Take action anyway! You can be the first link in a chain of people who, together, prevent an assault from happening.

5. Interrupt the situation

Do something that creates a distraction. What would happen if you asked an unexpected question or turned off the music? If you know that a sexual assault is going on, obviously you need to do more than that. Fetch a security guard or call the police!

6. It's never too late

Remember that you can always help afterwards. Make contact with and support the person who's been harassed or assaulted. Offer to act as a witness if necessary.
